Overview:

Overview: In this session, you will learn about the Graduate Teaching and Learning Program offered by the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research. The program is open to all graduate students and postdoctoral fellow for free, and has four levels. We will discuss the different components of the program, the benefits of completing the program and how you can begin.

Presenter: Deanna Davis, PhD, Professional Development Instructional Design Specialist and Program Lead, Graduate Teaching and Learning Program, Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research

Dr. Deanna Davis is the Professional Development Instructional Design Specialist for the Faculty of Graduate Studies and Research (FGSR), Program Lead and Principal Instructor for the Graduate Teaching and Learning (GTL) Program. With over 15 years of classroom teaching experience in the post secondary environment Dr. Davis applies a deep understanding of instructional design, delivery, and assessment to her work in teaching, coaching, and mentoring developing instructors. In her leadership role for the GTL Program Dr. Davis led the review of the program that led to its new redesign and restructuring. Also responsible for programming related to the Individual Development Plan of the Professional Development Requirement, she designs impactful learning opportunities for graduate students and post-doctoral fellows in the areas of professional development and career exploration that helps people find meaning, joy, and purpose in their professional lives in ways that not only allow them to be more effective in their roles, but also positions them to have an impact on their community, Alberta, and beyond.

Graduate Teaching and Learning Level 1
 January 7-10, 13-17, 20-21

Free sessions to help you become a better teacher and a stronger leader.

Some sessions may be used towards Ethics Training and most towards the Professional Development Requirement, and the Graduate Teaching and Learning Program.
